2020-21 Financial Aid Information for Field Study

Assistance is available to students who have an academically approved project and who demonstrate financial need. Current financial aid is not transferable or automatically available for field-study; students must apply for field study aid. Because the cost of field study projects or programs are less than the cost of active enrollment, students qualify for less aid than they receive to be on-campus. The maximum field-study award you may receive from Hampshire is the amount of our field-study tuition. The field study award is the combination of a Field Study Grant and any Hampshire merit scholarship. You can use your Federal Pell Grant, your state grant, any outside scholarships and your student loan to assist with the other expenses of your field-study project. Parents may also borrow a parent loan. No other types of aid is available for field study. Funding is primarily for experiential learning rather than exchange study. Therefore, tuition at another institution or program fees are not considered legitimate expenses for Hampshire funding.

PROCESS AND DEADLINES:

- Regular aid application—the deadline is May 1 for the fall term; December 1 for the spring term. Check your online financial aid account to see what is required for your aid application.
- Field study application—submit a Field Study Aid Application/Budget form before the end of the semester prior to your planned field study leave. Be as accurate as possible in determining the expenses for each category so you will have a clear understanding of the costs associated with your project. Be sure to include, with the Budget Form, documentation for any international travel costs (web page prints from travel sites) or for program costs at international schools (brochures or web site pages indicating program costs).
- If you are attending classes at another institution as part of your field study, the financial aid office requires a Consortium Agreement with that institution. The financial aid office will send you this form. Submit this form to us by July 1st for the fall term and by December 15th for the spring term.

DECISIONS:

- Regular aid application—this application will be reviewed first to determine your level of need as an enrolled student.
- Field study application—this application determines the allowable expenses and your level of need as a field study student. Some expenses have maximums equivalent to the cost on campus, such as room and board, books and personal expenses. Your need is the difference between the approved field study expenses and your expected family contribution. Your family is expected to contribute the same amount toward your field study expenses that they would toward your costs if you were fully enrolled.

If you complete your regular aid application and submit a Field Study Application/Budget form by May 1 for the fall term, you will receive your financial aid decision as soon as possible so you may plan. If you complete your application after May 1, your decision will be sent on a rolling basis throughout the summer. Spring field study applications are processed as received.

AWARDS:

- The maximum field-study award (Hampshire Grant & merit scholarship combined) is the amount of our field-study tuition.
- Other financial aid awards that are available for field study expenses include the Pell Grant, State Grant, student and parent loans, and outside scholarships. No other types of aid are available for field study including the SEOG, Mass Gilbert Grant, and any version of the Hampshire Grant and Community Scholarship.
- Work-study eligibility is not included in field study award packages.
- Your awards will be used first to satisfy your Hampshire bill including any outstanding charges from the previous semester. Any remaining funds will be available to you as a refund. No funds are released until after the beginning of the semester. You need to make arrangements with Student Accounts to secure your refund.
- Your total aid for your field study semester cannot exceed your total approved field study budget.

We recommend that you have a contact person (usually a parent) who should have your power of attorney to sign documents and arrange your finances and payments. This is also important if the following year's financial aid application materials need to be submitted while you are away.
